It illustrates every step of the process of caring for a vineyard, harvesting and producing fine wine along with each of the steps and equipment involved. Lots of great images tell the story from a hands-on, personal perspective. Every wine lover should have a copy of this marvelous book on their coffee table! 5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. A Glass of Wine, and this book By Richard Katz Vine to Wine is a picture book in widescreen format; the photographs are about 8.5 inches wide by about 6 inches high, and they cover borderlessly the leftfacing pages. This allows Dr Lyon to capture the essential outdoorsiness of his subject, grapevines and viticulture, as performed in the Napa Valley and environs. The accompanying facing text is sometimes little more than a caption, and sometimes an entire explanatory essay, but never more than one of those same size pages, on the rightfacing side of the book. Together, the photos and the text make a perfect accompaniment to a good glass of wine enjoyed by oneself. Should you be so lucky as to be enjoying a really good glass of wine, and enjoying it in the company of another person sitting next to you on the couch or at the bar of the tasting room, Lyon's book will take on a dimension that you have rarely experienced before: You'll be tasting something while you think about it and visualize its creation. Try it. It will only work with a book like this, with its masterful photographs and VERY readable text. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. PHOTO ESSAY ON PLANTING A VINEYARD By E. Mackey A magnificent photo essay of planning and planting a vineyard seen through the camera of a medical doctor, turned wine grower/wine maker. Shows you exactly what it is like from selection of rootstocks, preparation of the site, vine spacing, cover crops, irrigation on through the small lot wine-making process. I think it would be really helpful for anyone interested in growing grapes.

This is a photo-story of the creation of fine wine in the up to date American tradition, from preparing the soil and planting to the final bottling,

From the Publisher Dr. Richards Lyon is a urologist and Clinical Professor at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco. Since retiring to the Napa Valley, Dr. Lyon has rekindled a lifelong interest in photography. His forays into the vineyards and wineries, unceasing curiosity guiding him, has made possible this photo-story, now used by vintners and tourists alike as a stimulating reference. From the Author This photo-essay is the unforeseen result of my attempts to understand the basic steps in the creation of fine wine.....What I found is here - hopefully to be enjoyed as a learning experience by others like myself, and without claim to expertise."
