Archis : Volume 46: Shelter before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Volume 46: Shelter:

Shelter is most immediately associated today with conditions of disaster, displacement and destitution. There is an inherent urgency to the word; it is first and foremost a necessity, a human right even. Yet thought of as the absolute minimum necessary to survive, shelter is an architectural stigma. Shelter is not a thing though; shelter is a verb; if there is such a thing as shelter, it is because whatever it is, shelters. 'Volume 46' is dedicated to the question of how shelter can be reformulated as an architectural project.
